CLEVELAND, Dec. 10.—The Ohio State grange leader declared today that, with increased federal government expenditures, "we may expect an effort to transfer financial responsibility from the federal government to the state and local community."

"Such a transfer of responsibility will not relieve the burden," Master Walter F. Kirk told the grange's 68th annual session.

Fourth place in the state competition went to Mrs. Frank S. Kamper of Beloit, Mahoning county champion.

The Pattern Makers association of Salem and vicinity celebrated the 27th anniversary of their organization last Saturday night with a banquet at the Masonic temple.

C. D. Madigan of the Cleveland association reviewed the growth, problems, and successes of the Salem group from its organization in 1913 to the present day. He also commended the group on coming through a world war and two major depression intact.

After Madigan's address, Toastmaster Albin Nicklason, president of the Salem association, introduced George G. Lynch, who was appointed by President Roosevelt as a member of the government national defense committee.

Lynch, commended the Salem association for its loyalty and accomplishments during the past 27 years. At the close of his speech, he presented the National League emblem for 25 years of membership to Nicklason.

There are seven members in the local association who have had continuous membership in the organization from 25 to 37 years each.

Others who participated in the festivities were President Girard and business manager M. C. Schenley of Akron, and President Glenn McLean of Alliance. Stephen O. Jessup, a large employer of pattern makers when the local association began, was also a guest.

Provided Boles and his orchestra played music while 100 pattern makers and their ladies enjoyed a chicken dinner.

Other entertainment was furnished by eight members of the "Musical Ball" family.

Homicide Ruling Is Returned In Death Of Alliance Woman

ALLIANCE, Dec. 10.—With mystery still surrounding the source of fatal injuries early Saturday by Mrs. Mary LeFever, 23-year-old waitress, police continued their inquiry today.

A verdict of homicide was returned by Dr. E. C. Reno, Stark county coroner, who ruled that Mrs. LeFever suffered a compound fracture of the skull and intracranial hemorrhage inflicted by blunt force.

Chief Harry L. Stark said that many persons who had seen Mrs. LeFever Friday night were questioned during the weekend. He added that Harris James Haidet, 38, of 610 North Liberty ave., still was being held on a charge of suspicion, although no specific count had been filed against him.

Trace Her Steps

Haidet had accompanied Mrs. LeFever to the Verhovay hall on S. Webb ave., from which the woman departed alone a short time before her body was found lying on the pavement in front of 960 South Liberty ave., about 4 a. m., Saturday.

The dying woman was discovered by William Connors a taxi driver, who was responding to a call from the Verhovay hall. He sounded the alarm which resulted in the removal of the victim to the City hospital where she died about six hours later.

Captain H. L. Groves and Sgt. A. O. Lower continued to work on the investigation today. Patrolman W. R. McDonald Sunday night interviewed Mrs. Elizabeth Sexton and her sons, Lonzo and Willard, the mother and brothers of Mrs. LeFever, after they reached the Cusadaya and Turkle funeral home from Dawes, W. Va.

Rocco Romeo Case
Ruling Is Upheld

The court of appeals has affirmed the ruling of the common pleas court, denying an appeal for a new trial, in the case of Rocco Romeo, of Lisbon, who was found guilty by Judge Frank Cope of Carrollton of keeping a place where intoxicating liquors were sold illegally.

Indicted by the April grand jury, he waived jury trial and the case was tried by the Carrollton judge in Lisbon, who found him guilty as charged, fined him $300 and costs and delivered him a lecture on his failure to become an American citizen in the many years he had been in the country.

His attorneys filed a motion for a trial, which was denied, and he made an appeal to the higher court, which reviewed the case a month ago at Lisbon. The verdict returned today upheld the lower court's ruling.

Franklin Twp. Will Vote;
Knox Petitions For

The county board of elections today received an appeal from Knox township supporters of a three-mill levy for two years, for school operating revenue, for the appointment of challengers at the Nov. 21 special election.

The levy was voted down Nov. 5 and schools, as a result, were forced to suspend. Levy advocates then asked a special election.

The petition points out that some residents of Knox township who, however, send their children to Alliance City schools, are not entitled to ballot on the Knox township issue.

The eighth special election in the county was scheduled today as residents of the Franklin Rural school district, of one precinct, asked for a vote on a three-mill levy for two years, to provide funds for operating purposes. The balloting will be Jan. 7.

This territory includes all of Franklin township with the exception of the Summitville school district.

The election board is ordering preparation of 500 ballots.

Lawyers Planning Banquet
For Veteran Judge Lones

Bar Association To Honor Jurist, Retiring Dec. 31,
At East Liverpool Country Club Fete

Judge W. F. Lones, whose record of 14 years on the common pleas bench has won wide recognition, will be honored at a banquet to be given by the Columbiana County Bar association Friday evening, Dec. 20, prior to his retirement on Dec. 31.

The event will be held at the East Liverpool Country club, with Judge Charles Smith of Youngstown, a former member of the Seventeenth District Court of Appeals, as the speaker. Attorney Walter B. Hill of East Liverpool will give a toast to Judge Lones on behalf of the elder members of the Bar association, while Attorney Alfred Fitch of Salem will speak for the younger members of Columbiana county's legal profession.

With his retirement from the common pleas bench, Judge Lones will round out a legal career spanning 54 years. He was admitted to the bar Feb. 5, 1886.

Born at Williamsport in Madison township, Aug. 29, 1863, he is a son of the late William H. and Minerva Lones. Obtaining his early education at the Cream Ridge rural school, he was graduated from Lisbon High school, and from Ohio Northern university at Ada in 1883. Mr. Lones then read law under the late A. U. Clark of East Liverpool, and after being admitted to the bar opened offices in East Liverpool.

One month later he went to Dayton, Tenn., where he opened law offices and in 1889 was elected mayor of that city, a position to which he was re-elected but later resigned in 1891 to return to Williamsport where he took over the practice of the late Atty P. C. Young of Wellsville.

In 1916, he formed a law partnership with W. B. Hill and the

As To The Immedi-

(By Associated Press)
BERLIN, Dec. 10.—"We will defeat the entire world," Adolf Hitler shouted to cheering munitions workers today in a speech which admitted not even the remotest chance that Germany might fall short of her goals.

Bitterly, the fuhrer pictured Germany as the champion of labor and the "have-nots" in a war between "two worlds"—between the "halves" and the "have-nots," between capital and labor.

Confidently, he declared, "Whatever happens, Germany will be victorious."

Attacks Democracies

The speech was studded with attacks on capitalism and the democracies, particularly with sharp jibes against Britain and her leaders.

It went not only to workers in an undisclosed Berlin plant, whom Hitler addressed from a rostrum made of huge steel blocks, but also by radio to the peoples of Nazi-conquered countries and to Germany's allies, Italy, Hungary and Slovakia.

Repeatedly it was interrupted by cheers and chants.

The fuhrer reiterated his confidence that nothing in the world could stop Germany and declared that "once I have decided on my course I am filled with boundless fanaticism."

"Our capacity for work is our gold, our capital, and with it we will defeat the entire world," he declared.

Conflict in the world, he said, is a conflict between "haves" and "have-nots."

No New Prospects
He opened no new prospects as to the immediate future except that the fight would continue relentlessly.

In the war he said "we stand fortified against every eventual-ity."

"England may do what she will—she will sustain harder hits with each weapon."

Arraign Bunfield
In East Liverpool
Shooting Affray

EAST LIVERPOOL, Dec. 10.—Chief of Police Hugh McDermott filed a charge of shooting with intent to wound today against James Bunfield, 45, a steel worker, who was arrested Thursday after a revolver shot was fired into the left temple of Mrs. Sylvia Anderson, 40 mother of four children, in what police said, was a love triangle.

Bunfield, who has been held on an open charge since he was trapped by police at nearby Congo, W. Va., will be arraigned today. Police who said Bunfield admitted the shooting, expect him to plead guilty.

Hospital attendants reported improvements in the condition of Mrs. Anderson, although physicians said no effort would be made to remove a bullet, which lodged at the base of her brain.

Fines also were levied in three city police cases, as follows:

Wallace Davis, arrested by Patrolman Beach on a charge of reckless operation, $10 and costs.

Rolland Cooper, arrested by Patrolman Todd, reckless operation, $25 and costs; resisting an officer, $25 and costs.

Raymond Johnson, arrested by Patrolman Todd, reckless operation, $10 and costs; disturbing the peace, $10 and costs.

Opening a ten days' drive for the sale of tickets to benefit movies Dec. 19 and Dec. 20-21, representatives of a number of women's groups in the city today asked the support of the public in a project planned to provide funds for needed dental work for underprivileged school children.

Through the cooperation of school authorities, health officials and local dentists, arrangements have been made to have the work done for a large number of children, if funds can be provided. The "welfare unit," outgrowth of individual club welfare projects, which previously functioned as separate charitable works, was formed to concentrate the efforts of all the groups on one project.

The movies to be shown at the State theater will be: On Dec. 19, a one-day feature, "Pastor Hall," story of a German priest who resisted Nazification of his church, with Wilfred Lawson, Nova Pilbeam and Seymour Hicks; and a two-day attraction, "A Little Bit of Heaven," starring young Gloria Jean, child actress-singer, in a musical comedy.

Tickets for the films are available from members of the following organizations: The Travelers, Book, Salem Garden, Leornians and Salem Music Study clubs, the Beta Sigma Phi sorority and the Progressive Mothers' circle; and from Mrs. Ralph W. BRITISH FORCE
CUTS 75 MILES
IN THREE DAYS

Offensive Drives Between
Italian Positions
In Desert

COAST REACHED,
CHURCHILL SAYS

"We Shall Receive Further News Shortly," Premier Promises

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Dec. 10.—British forces in Egypt have raced 75 miles in a swift and continuing offensive to cut between the Italian positions in the western desert and have taken 4,000 prisoners in three days, official announcements said today.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, formally announcing the offensive to the house of commons, disclosed that British units had reached the Mediterranean coast after penetrating Italian lines between the Italian bases of Sidi Barrani and Buhaq, roughly 70 miles and 35 miles, respectively, inside the Egyptian-Libyan frontier.

4,000 Captured
His announcement coincided with a British-African command communique placing the number of Italians captured since Saturday at 4,000 (roughly 5 per cent of the estimated 80,000 Italians within Egypt).

Churchill disclosed that the offensive had been delayed for about a month because of the necessity of replacing the warplanes which were detached from Africa to aid Greece.

Now, he said, the air force and navy are fully supporting the offensive, and he left no doubt that "we shall receive further news shortly."

He declined to say, however, whether the Italian base at Sidi Barrani had been cut off.

The prime minister's ruddy face was beaming as he announced the successful opening of the campaign against Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's army which for months has been poised for an attack on Alexandria and Suez.

Temporary Postponement

He said the Royal Air Force aid for Greece which had proved "most important" in the Greek victories had caused a temporary postponement of the attack against the Italians in Egypt in which "Free French" forces had cooperated with the army of the Nile.

"It is too soon," the prime minister said, "to attempt to forecast either the scope or the result of the considerable operations which are in progress. But we can at any rate say that the preliminary phase has been successful."

The house cheered wildly as he concluded his report with the statement.

BUC "Charge-Back"
And Merit-Rating
Will Be Explained

COLUMBUS, Dec. 7.—Payroll auditors of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation will be stationed in the 60 branch offices of the bureau during the week of Jan. 5, 1941, to explain merit rating and charge-back procedure to employers, BUC officials announced today.

Statements showing charge-backs made against the individual accounts of employers contributing to the Ohio unemployment compensation trust fund, will be mailed to employers on Dec. 26 officials said.

The Ohio unemployment compensation law provides that after Jan. 1, 1942, the amount of contribution each employer must pay will be determined by a merit rating system, replacing the flat 2.7 per cent payroll tax paid by employers since 1936.

Contributions under the merit rating system, based on the employment experience of liable employers over a three-year period, will range from 1 to 4 per cent of the average annual payroll of such employers.

TIME TO LAY A GHOST

Death and taxes are inevitable. The old quip is chock full of truth, as they might say on the radio. It isn't just taxes that are inevitable, but taxes in proportion to spending.

So far, the spenders have brushed off the latter fact. But it can't be brushed off forever. One day it will have to be faced, and when that day comes a federal sales tax will become a public issue.

It is the one tax that produces maximum revenue with minimum friction, aside from the strictly bogus friction created in debate by politicians whose hearts bleed in public for little taxpayers. In that connection, it is time to start laying a ghost.

It is true that a sales tax takes a relatively higher proportion of the poor man's than of the wealthy man's income. Politicians always agitate that point to a fare-thee-well. What they don't mention is that the argument doesn't mean anything unless the sales tax is the only tax being levied.

The wealthy man pays not only the sales tax, which might be called a basic tax, but also pays all the other taxes that collectors have devised down through the years for his special benefit. When a sales tax is added to the collectors' bag of tricks, it means that matters have reached a point where soaking the rich no longer is enough to keep the ship of state afloat. It has become necessary, also, to soak the poor.

To illustrate how politicians who profess to defend the poor may get tangled up in their own rope, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, as a member of the house of representatives, led congressional opposition to a federal sales tax in 1932. Later, when LaGuardia had become mayor of New York City and was wrestling with a budget, instead of a talking point, a sales tax was imposed in New York City to do what had to be done; namely, finance the city's relief outlays.

ROME, DECLINING AND FALLING?

There is something strikingly reminiscent of the disaster that overtook the French army last June in Italian communiques. The French communiques spoke bravely of "orderly retreats," of "retirements to previously fortified positions," but somehow the orderliness and the fortifications never materialized. Then, there is the further resemblance of Italian shifts in commanders—Weygand for Gamelin in France, Cavallero for Badoglio in Italy. Armies do not change commanders in the middle of a crisis except in desperation. The very act signifies shattered morale and loss of confidence.

Italy's symptoms may be false. Rome may have everything under control. The Fascist regime may not be breaking up from the inside. The ease with which the weakest army in Europe is routing what was supposed to be one of the strongest armies may be a snare and a delusion. But the circumstantial evidence is that Italy, like France, may be afflicted with hardening of the arteries, galloping consumption, churchyard cough, shell shock and epileptic debility—heavy handicaps to take into a battle for survival.

MY KINGDOM FOR A MAN!

The bureau of the census, hoisting a bureaucratic eyebrow to the ladies, reports they soon will outnumber the men in the United States. What fun that will be—for the men! As recently as 1910, there were 2,092,288 more men than women in the country, but as nations grow older, despite the fact there are more boy babies than girl babies, the competition for husbands always gets fiercer. England, France, Germany and the rest of the tired, old nations have huge surpluses of women; war has a lot to do with it in their cases.

In the United States, on the other hand, males fall prey more often to various and sundry diseases and to automobile accidents than women do. The cold truth is that they aren't the stronger sex; they may as well face it. They can lift heavier objects, but they lack the tough fiber of survival in the kind of world they have helped to make. If it weren't for the certainty they would be pampered and spoiled as they become relatively scarce in the years to come, the prospect would look mighty gloomy.

ENDEMIC, EPIDEMIC, PANDEMIC

Common sense warns against generalizations about southern California's influenza epidemic. Nevertheless, it is only reasonable to be mindful of the traditionally close connection between war and pestilence. The United States, as a whole, may be unaffected. Influenza may remain endemic throughout the world, never reaching epidemic, than pandemic proportions again, as it did in 1918-19, when virtually every country on earth felt its source.

It being, however, a fact that war and pestilence do go hand in hand, precautions against influenza are timely. These are the very essence of simplicity—plenty of sleep, nourishment and exercise. A fourth preventive step, which some authorities believe may be more important than all the others, if omitted, is to guard against excess worry and excitement. While crowding and exposure to infection seemed to explain the waves of influenza that prostrated the populations of war-ridden countries in 1918-19, epidemic in the United States seemed more easily traceable to the nervousness and excitement produced by the war effort.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, December 11

THE auguries for this day are read as most propitious for the putting over of very expensive and ambitious programs, and for the resulting stabilization of the credit and fortunes with growth and security of investments and possessions. It is a time for working toward such goals with determination, sound effort and determination but not with too much haste, ardor, impetuosity or recklessness. Also it would be well to be on guard against subtlety, duplicity and intrigues.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of very stable and expansive conditions, with definite growth in all directions. There should be satisfactory financial increase and a solidifying of the possessions and investments, with sound personal advancement and prestige. However, these should not be jeopardized by taking too much for granted, or by impetuous, over-enthusiastic or untenable plans. Likewise there may be dangers from treachery or schemes of an entirely hidden or unsuspected nature.

A child born on this day will have much sound ability and worthy ambitions, with a generous, gracious and responsible character. However it may be carried away by zeal, impetuosity, or be the dupe of fraudulent intrigues unless alert and self-controlled.

SEEK PEGGED PRICES

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10.—American Farm Bureau Federation officials claimed support in high administration quarters today for a revision of federal farm programs under which crop prices would be pegged at higher levels and parity payments would be eliminated.

Advancing such a plan before the annual convention of the federation which opened yesterday, President Edward A. O'Neal declared he was "not worried about getting the support of the man at the White House."

Other federation officials said the proposed revisions had been discussed with President Roosevelt. They would not say, however, whether the chief executive had approved the changes.

The plan, in short, would use commodity loan features of the present crop control act to peg and stabilize prices of such basic crops as wheat, corn, cotton and tobacco at levels equivalent to between 85 and 100 per cent of parity.

(Parity is a method of measuring farm prices in their relationship to non-farm products and services. Parity prices are defined as those which would give individual farm commodities purchasing power in terms of non-farm goods and services equal to that of the 1909-14 period.)

Under the O'Neal plan, the government would make loans at not below 85 per cent of parity. On the basis of current prices, the minimum loan rates would be about 95 cents a bushel for wheat, 69 cents for corn and 13.39 cents a pound for cotton.

Concerning Wisdom Teeth

If They're Sound, Let Them Stay

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A reader 45 years old who has never had a toothache or had a tooth pulled, writes that his wisdom teeth came in late, and that two of them are not completely erupted yet. Should they be pulled because they do not present a chewing surface?

In the absence of any trouble, toothache or decay, it would certainly be the consensus of conservative opinion that wisdom teeth, whether erupted or not, should be let alone. Perhaps a dental X-ray would be advisable in view of the tendency to late eruption, to see that they are not impacted, and not infringing on nerve trunks or other teeth, though in the absence of toothache or discomfort such a contingency is rather remote. Wisdom teeth are probably not necessary, as is proved by the fact that many are able to chew well without them, and because they are semi-vestigial structures they are more liable to deterioration than other teeth, but if free from decay and have live, healthy pulps, they will function well and should be allowed to do so.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Flabby Muscles

Why do muscles that are not exercised get flabby?

The contraction of a muscle, simple and frequent as such an act is, results in some of the most complicated chemical and structural changes that can occur in the body. Energy is released because oxygen unites with sugar, just as oxygen uniting with gasoline releases energy in your motor car. Water and lactic acid are formed as by-products. Structurally some of the muscle cells are broken down or at least temporarily diminished in size. The muscle cells absorb from the surrounding blood plasma food materials. When exercise is regular there is a constant change of some of the elements of the muscle cells. The fibrous portions of the muscle cell become hardened and tough. The cells become larger, firmer, and there is an increase in the number of muscle cells. Lack of use reverses all these processes, resulting in a soft, flabby, easily tiring muscle.

Health With One Kidney

Can a person live with one kidney and be healthy?

This is a question that thousands of people have had to answer for themselves personally, and admittedly it is an anxious one. But it can be answered affirmatively. A person with one kidney lives just as long as a person with two. A kidney must be removed either because of tuberculosis or a kidney stone which has caused infection and destruction. With modern methods of examination, the functional capacity of each kidney can be tested separately and it can be determined that the kidney that's to remain can do all the work of excretion for the whole body. The kidneys work in their own fashion—probably not more than a third of the kidney tissue works at any one time; then it rests and another third carries on. When one kidney is removed, the other enlarges to compensate.

Ketogenic Diet: I am still getting requests for particular instructions about Ketogenic diets for Epilepsy. In general it is high in fat and low in sugars and starches; that is about all that can be said; since an individual has to eat nearly eleven hundred meals a year, lack of space prevents us from prescribing for every one of them. But as a sample for one day here is a typical ketogenic diet:

Breakfast: Tomato juice one-third cup; soy bean muffins and butter; 1 fried egg; 4 slices bacon; coffee with cream but no sugar.

Lunch: Broiled steak; one-fourth cup cooked spinach; lettuce with mayonnaise dressing; soy bean muffin with butter.

Dinner: Cream of tomato soup; boiled ham; one-half cup cabbage; soy bean muffin with butter. Coffee with cream but no sugar. (Soy bean muffins are made of soy bean flour, washed bran, olive oil, baking powder, water, salt, beaten eggs.)

"TRIAL WITHOUT JURY"

By JAMES RONALD

SYNOPSIS

Stephen Osborn, at 50, is facing a serious problem indeed when he loses his office job after many years of employment. He has a wife and five children and—scarce savings. Leaving his city office with leaden feet to walk to his suburban bus, he thinks of his wealthy half-sister, Octavia, who has sternly disapproved his marriage ever since it took place, twenty-four years ago. It would be hard—very hard—to appeal to her for help. . . . Arriving near his suburban home, he meets his lively 12-year-old son, Peter, and is about to greet his eldest daughter, Dorothy, and her boy-friend, Ted Fleming.

CHAPTER THREE

"Hello, Daddy," Dorothy said. She kissed him, a thing his children seldom did in public.

Stephen greeted the young man, who grinned meaningfully at Dorothy. She flushed. They all stood looking at each other in the middle of the road then, with a cry which was not quite spontaneous, Dorothy pounced upon her small brother. "Peter! You'd better hurry home and wash or you'll be late for supper."

"I want to walk home with Dad," Peter objected.

"You'd better run or mother will be cross. Give me ten yards start and I'll race you."

"All right, but I'm sure to win." They darted off up the road, leaving Mr. Osborn and Ted Fleming behind. The young man coughed.

"Has Dorothy told you, sir? I've passed my final exams; father is taking me into his office as a junior partner."

"I'm delighted to hear it. You're getting a splendid start. Your father has one of the best law practices in Bradbury."

Young Fleming mumbled something and reddened.

"I—er—I—have something rather important I want to talk to you about, sir."

Stephen realized what was coming. If he read the signs correctly, the lad had just proposed and been accepted and they hadn't been able to resist waylaying him to get his consent without delay. He was glad. Ted was exactly the sort of young man he wanted for his daughter's husband. They would make a charming couple.

But would Ted's parents be equally pleased? They could not have anything to do with Dorothy, but they might not consider a man in Osborn's financial position a desirable father-in-law for their only child. They were the sort of people who were certain to reduce the romance to those terms. And Stephen was now unemployed, which made the situation a thousand times more difficult. Suddenly he felt very tired. He had too much on his mind this evening to cope with another problem.

"I'm rather tired. Won't it keep until tomorrow?"

"I—I suppose it can," said Ted Fleming dully.

At the southern end of the village, they parted at the gate of a large house, square and solid, set in the middle of a fair-sized garden. That was Osborn's home.

When Stephen and Edith, newly married, fell in love with the district and came to Lakewood to look for a house large enough for the family they intended to raise, they were offered this house at a surprisingly low rent. They had moved in, twenty-four years ago, taking with them a servant girl even more young and inexperienced than themselves. In 1939 they were still living there and by that time there were seven Osborns, the rent had been raised three times, the harsh contours of the house had been softened by a garment of Virginia creeper and hallowed by countless associations; and the raw servant girl was a woman in her middle forties.

Stephen swung open the gate and went up the trim garden path. A tall, graceful woman was waiting at the open door. At forty-nine, Edith Osborn was still beautiful and her blue eyes had a serenity born of a hundred triumphs and disasters. When Stephen met her eyes, he knew that he would have to tell her that very night about his lost job.

"Aunt Octavia's coming to visit us now, instead of next week," said Edith.

At eight o'clock the following morning, a Saturday in early August, a boy on a bicycle rode up to the house at the end of the village. He dismounted and leaned his bicycle against the hedge, threw back the garden gate with a crash that sorely tried its hinges, swaggered up the path and beat a rousing tattoo on the door-knocker. In a few moments the door was opened by a woman in a blue print dress and white apron who declared acidly that if it was his desire to break in he would have been well advised to bring an axe and use it!

Her scowl changed to an anxious frown when she saw the envelope in his hand. In this flippant age there are those who send and receive telegrams as nonchalantly as postcards, but Hannah Gale was not one of them.

"Mr. Osborn," said the boy self-importantly, holding out the envelope and a receipt-book. Hannah took the telegram as gingerly as though it were infected, carried it to her mistress, who was laying the table for breakfast, and waited gloomily—ominously—while it was opened.

Edith Osborn uttered an exclamation of dismay when she read the message.

"Aunt Octavia. . . . Oh, dear!" Hannah's face lit up.

"Dead?" she asked hopefully. Her mistress laughed.

"Hannah, I'm ashamed of you. No, it isn't anything like that. She's quarrelled with the friends with whom she's been staying, and she's coming to visit us now instead of next week—she's arriving by the twelve o'clock train. It's going to make things rather awkward. I meant to give her the room Uncle Simon has—he would have been gone by next Saturday—but we'll manage somehow. I do hope Simon will be civil to her. Tell the boy there's no answer."

Hannah returned to the front door where she found Ernie Piper, the tip of his tongue protruding from his mouth, drawing on one of the pillars with a chewed stump of pencil.

A stinging blow from one of her large red hands set him sprinting over the gravel path.

OUR READERS

PROTECTING HUNTERS

Editors, The News:
Recent news items reflect that on the first day of deer season, five hunters were killed in Pennsylvania and on the second day six more were killed. Every day, more and more are wounded and it occurs to me that something is radically wrong.

If a man takes several drinks, steps into his car and drives off, he is arrested for driving while under the influence of liquor, fined, faces a possible jail sentence and has his driver's license revoked, all in the interests of protection to the public. That is all well and good and certainly is as it should be. But an automobile is not of itself a dangerous weapon and only becomes so when operated by an incompetent person.

On the other hand, a man may purchase a hunting license for $1.25, proceed to the liquor store or nearest bar and get beautifully plastered, then take his gun out into the woods and shoot anything that remotely resembles a wild animal or bird and nothing can be done about it. If he shoots another hunter, the Coroner would undoubtedly return a verdict of "unavoidable accident" and that would be that.

Isn't it about time that the state legislature took steps to protect other hunters? As long as there are game wardens to see that hunters do not take over the legal limit or hunt on game preserves, why couldn't the law give them the power to arrest for liquor and make the presence of liquor grounds for a fine, jail sentence, and revocation of hunting license.

late George Davidson in East Liverpool, this firm existing until he was elected to the common pleas bench in 1926 to fill out the unexpired two-year term of the late Judge J. G. Moore. He was subsequently elected to two six-year terms.

During his career on the bench, Judge Lones has presided over many outstanding hearings, including such murder trials as that of S. R. Lengel, former Canton police chief, whose trial on conspiracy in the Don R. Mellet murder was transferred to Lisbon on a change of venue; the George Nick murder trial for the shooting of Christ Bazarus in Lisbon several years ago; the Clyde Dickey, Christmas morning milk wagon murder in East Liverpool, for which two men, Dudley Adams and Burl Rogers, are serving life sentences, while a third member of the holdup trio, Clinton Daniels, was never apprehended.

He also heard the Cranston murder, in which Johannes Borgwardt was convicted of shooting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ellen Cranston, and sentenced to life in the Ohio penitentiary; and the latest case, Joseph Howell and John Lester Welch, for the street car holdup and slaying of Motorman George Culp in Wellsville.

With Mrs. Lones, the former Lettie Southwick, whom he met while located in Dayton, Tenn., and whom he married at Springfield, Mo., in June, 1896, Judge Lones lives in Wellsville during the greater part of the year and spends the summers at the old Lones homestead at Williamsport, commuting daily to his bench in common pleas court at the Nov. 5 general election.

Improved with a good 7-room house with electricity, gas, furnace. Bathroom is complete with the exception of electric pump. Barn 40x70 under slate. Palestine Pottery Windows Broken

EAST PALESTINE, Dec. 10. — Most of the 50 employees who walked out of the clayshop of the W. S. George Pottery Co. here Saturday had returned to work today, but Chief of Police George Nulf held three suspects in connection with the smashing of 120 windows in the plant shortly after the walkout.

The men left work after the company declined to pay them Saturday, one day ahead of the usual pay date, and said their money would be ready Monday a union member said.

Some of the men who returned to work today were sent home, but most of the crews was back on the job, the spokesman added.

Broken glass from the smashed windows fell into several clay piles, causing further damage, the company said.

In East Liverpool, James M. Duffy, president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, said he "hasn't heard a thing" of the walkout.

About 20 employees still are off the job, Chief Nulf said arrests are expected on the window smashing.

Reserve Officers May Get Added Duty

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — The war department announced today that it now appeared that it would be necessary to order approximately 20,000 additional reserve officers to extended active duty before next June 30.

By the end of this month, the army said it expected to have almost 30,000 reserve officers on active duty as a result of the tremendous expansion of the nation's land forces.

"In view of the constantly changing situation," the department said, "it appears to be impracticable to give individual reserve officers definite information as to the exact dates they will be called for active duty. However, all corps area and department commanders and chiefs of branches, have been directed to provide reserve officers under their jurisdiction with as much advance notice as possible."

Father Of 12 Killed

LORAIN, Dec. 10. — A hit-skip driver killed Fred Gerber, 50, of Henrietta, father of 12 children, early today.

Rudibaugh's Defeats Sanitary In Hot Class A League Battle

DEMINGS, NEWS, CADETS WIN IN CLASS B GAMES

Last Year's "A" Champs Lose Opening Contest
By 37-31 Score

The Class A basketball league got off to a flying start last night at the Memorial building as the Rudibaugh Sanitary defeated the Demings by a 37 to 31 decision over the National Sanitary, last year's champs, in a hot battle.

Shears was the big gun for the Schloans, netting four field goals and two fouls for 10 points. D. Schaffer and Nedelka were close behind with nine and eight points, respectively. Duncan led the losers with two buckets and four free throws for eight points, while R. Jeffries and Pukalski were right behind.

The Rudibaugh got away to a 19-12 lead in the opening quarter but the Sanitary five came back strong in the second, eventually knotted the count and forged ahead for a few minutes in the third quarter. However, the Rudibaugh were not to be denied, it seemed, and a strong rally in the closing period gave them enough points to win.

Class B had three games get under way last night. The Carroll Cadets downed the Saxons 39-24 with Hanzlick and Miller scoring 12 and 10 points respectively for the winners.

The Salem News gained their win with a 28-21 victory over the Christians. Miller led the News with eight points while Whitcomb garnered eight for the losers.

The Deming tilters had an easy time as they trounced the Carroll Clowns 24-10. Allen starred for the winners, sinking ten goals and two fouls for ten points. John made five of the Clowns' ten points.

O.S.U. STUDYING GRID PROBLEMS

Drug Store Experts Profess to See Schmidt Removal in Offing

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—Downtown quarterbacks of the Buckeye capital were calling signals today for a three-man committee assigned to "consider the football situation" at Ohio State university following the poorest season in a decade.

The committee was authorized by the university's board of athletic control at the suggestion of Athletic Director L. W. St. John.

Drug store experts were nearly unanimous in the opinion that the move was the first official step toward the removal of Francis A. Schmidt as head coach.

Some believed that in addition to Schmidt, Line Coach Ernie Godfrey and Assistant Coach Sidney Gillman also would be recommended for discard. Others thought the committee might suggest the retirement of Schmidt and the retention of the assistant coaches subject to the will of Schmidt's successor.

Report Within Two Weeks
J. L. Morrill, vice president of Ohio State and chairman of the athletic board, said the committee probably would report to the board within two weeks. St. John was anxious to get the "matter cleared up" before the annual winter meeting of the National Intercollegiate Football Coaches association in New York, Dec. 30-31.

Schmidt has stated repeatedly since the "won four, lost four" season ended with a 40-0 loss to the University of Michigan that he expected to be at the Buckeye helm again in 1941. He termed published reports that he would be discharged as "cock and bull stories" and said flatly that he would not resign.

Members of the committee named to study the situation are Prof. Robert E. Monroe, faculty representative; Hugh E. Nesmitt, alumni representative; and Edwin E. Dodd, student representative.

"NOTHING WILL STOP US"—HITLER

Sees Victory Over Entire World In Talk At Munitions Plant

later, "Germany will be victorious." He accused "that the great strategist Churchill" of deciding to launch "unrestricted air warfare" with an attack on Freiburg. He said, "I didn't want to attack anything except military objectives," and added:

"I waited one month for them to cease this sort of combat. I waited two and three months. But now we are conducting war as they wanted it."

He taunted the British with talking "about my missing bus. Well, I got there just long enough ahead to climb aboard before the British. Wherever the German soldier stands, nobody else can get."

Hitler got a round of applause from his audience when he said "the time for the final struggle is determined by us. I am always careful. We can afford to wait. The German people will appreciate it more if I wait and thereby save lives."

Reeks With Self Praise
"The world must recognize," he said, "that there can be no defeat in Germany, either military or economic, due to long duration" of the war.

"I am not a man who, when once the fight is taken up, drops it. In my lexicon, there is not the word capitulation."

"I don't seek a fight, but once it is forced on me I will conduct it so long as there is a breath of life in me."

"I can conduct it today because I know the entire German people stand behind me."

"Only fools can think there can be any rift among us," he said later.

Italian Newspaper Suggests Beatings

ROME, Dec. 10.—A front page editorial in the newspaper Il Popolo di Roma recommended today the beating of "defeatists, alarmists, pessimists and rumor mongers" in Italy.

"It seems to us like those who have come to beat them up so it will leave a mark that will not soon be forgotten," the editorial said.

"Happiness Finder" Finds Some Himself

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10.—Edward F. Corll, who operated as Appleton Beemster, "happiness finder" for lonely women, found some happiness for himself in federal court today.

Judge Robert N. Wilkin placed Corll on probation for two years in suspending an 18-month sentence for using the mails to defraud. "Your record in every other way is clear and clean," Judge Wilkin told the 24-year-old defendant. "That stands you in good stead now."

we shall in no case engage in war except in actual national defense." Kirk painted a gloomy picture of present farm prospects in his annual report.

Ratio Less Than 80

"Based upon our agricultural income for the first ten months, the estimated income for the current year indicates that the ratio of farm prices received to those farmers pay, is less than eighty."

"In addition to this, we must face a probable inflation of industrial prices increasing the cost of the products we must buy; an agricultural market depressed by the lack of foreign demand, and the competition of foreign agricultural producers.

"We should develop and maintain agricultural independence in so far as conditions will permit. Every effort seeking to discover and adapt new agricultural products, or develop additional uses for farm crops, should receive the hearty support of all our citizens."

Local Lady Was Unable To Lie Down Because Of Sharp Piercing Pains In Her Back

"Declares that her feet and legs were full of aches and pains and would swell something terrible. Nightly risings and severe headaches were common. Feels better than she has for a great number of years since taking TONJON No. 3."

MRS. ETTA SWARTZ

"My back had bothered me to the extent that I could not lay down at nights to sleep. I would have to get up and sit in order for it to ease the pain," says Mrs. Etta Swartz of Randolph, near Ravenna, Ohio, a member of the Reform Church at Suffield, Ohio.

"Sharp stabbing pains were in my back, legs and the back of my neck constantly. My joints and muscles were always stiff, sore and aching. My legs, feet and ankles would swell terribly and I was called to leave my bed each night to relieve my kidneys of the discomfort which grew to be an annoying disturbing matter. My urine did not flow freely and a burning and smarting sensation always accompanied urination. I was constipated and in an extremely nervous condition. I suffered from headaches and always felt worn out and sluggish."

"Since I have taken TONJON No. 3 a short time it has relieved my nervous condition and I am no longer so bothered with headaches. Nightly risings have been eliminated. I feel better than I have for a great number of years. My constipation also has been greatly relieved. I don't think anything could have done me as much good as this medicine, and it will do the same thing for other sufferers."

The wonders of Herbal Medicines when they are properly compounded can be explained by the TONJON Health Representative at Broadway Lease Drug Store, Salem, Ohio.

Dick Powell and his wife, Joan Blondell, are co-starred in the comedy, "I Want a Divorce," showing Wednesday only at the State.

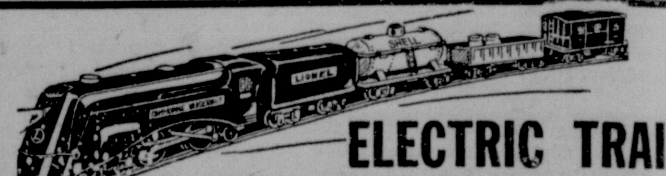

The picture that put Dick Powell in the big-money class again after a series of "coners" did their best to ruin his screen career, it gives Powell a chance to prove that he can do something besides sing.

The story of a young wife who jumps to conclusions about her husband's "extra-curricular activities" is a light-hearted treatment of the subject, giving full opportunity to the stars and cast to display their comedy talents.

Concluding tonight at the State is the comedy-romance, "Little Nellie Kelly," starring Judy Garland.
